The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THE meeting in northern Italy between Messrs Hitler and Mussolini could have brought little solace to the harassed pair, and indeed may well have savored of a not too fond farewell to partnership in brigandage.

DNE the official German news agency, has indicated that this parley concerned the invasion of Sicily and the "desperate onslaught" of the Russians on the eastern front. That would seem to be a certainty, and the issues involved are so clear that one can almost hear the conversation.

"I need more help, and need it quick," says Mussolini, trying to square his wobbly jaw and play the strong man. "The alternative is a separate peace."

"I'm much afraid, Benito," replies the Fuehrer, "that I can't provide any additional aid. The damnable Bolsheviks have precipitated a crisis by their drive on Orel. As a matter of fact, they're on the offensive from the Arctic to the Black sea. You'll have to fight your own battle with what you have."

"But, Adolf," quavers the soft underbelly of Europe, "the only thing that keeps my people from revolting against me now and making peace with the enemy is their fear of reprisals by you. My troops are in mutiny in Sicily. Without your help I can't stand off disaster. Surely the might of Germany hasn't lost control of the Russian front. You can spare me something more."

"I CAN spare you nothing, my friend," replies the ace. "Strictly off the record my armies in the east are in a nasty hole. When we started our belated drive against Kursk on July 5 I thought we could smash the Red lines, envelop their great body of reserves and annihilate them. With luck I could knock the Bolsheviks out. That would give me a chance to help you and face the stupid pigs of Yankees and British who are destroying my resources by bombing."

"But the unspeakable Communists stopped us. Then they counter-attacked, and the counter-attack has developed into a great offensive. Orel may fall at any moment."

"But why is Orel so important, Fuehrer?"

"Stupid! It's one of our pivotal strong points. It's an anchor at an important railway center as well. Mr. whole front south of Moscow might have to be pulled back if we lost Orel."

"Supposing, Adolf," whispers Mussolini, as he looks over his shoulder, "the Reds should break your line, and drive you back through Poland. Supposing the Russian people in the conquered areas, and the Poles, should get out of hand and start to take revenge in blood..."

"Stop it, you fat offspring of a bachelorette," screams the all highest. "Supposing," insists Il Duce, "the Russians break through and make a quick drive into Germany. What sort of terms do you think the Axis would get from these Reds we've been trying to wipe out?"

"I couldn't hear the answer to this question and suspect that somewhere closed the window of the conference room. The reply would have been interesting."

IN ANY event, the Nazi chief's concern about Orel is justified. The Reds are bombarding this strategic fortress with heavy guns from north, east and south. A powerful Bolshevik column has driven thirty miles into the enemy rear and captured...

First Bombers of Rome; Their Target In Flames

Great accuracy of the American bombing raid on Rome is attested by the top photo, above, which shows great clouds of smoke billowing up from the San Lorenzo railroad yards in the heart of the "Eternal City". The tracks leading into the yards can be seen at upper right, but the yards themselves are hidden in the smoke and flame. Honor of piloting the lead ship in the first formation of Flying Fortresses to attack Rome goes to Col. Sam Gormley, left in lower photo, of Alhambra, Calif., who is pictured after his return from the mission as he talked it over with his bombardier, First Lieut. Fred G. Wheeler, who dropped the first bombs. These are Northwest African Air Forces photos radioed by the U. S. Army Signal Corps.

TRUCE LOOMS ON FOOD FRONT

Leaders Also Seek To Settle Differences On Farm Problems

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The executive branch and legislative leaders appeared to be headed toward a truce on some of their major farm and food policy differences today as:

1—Senator Russell (D-Ga.) called on his farm state contemporaries to meet the administration halfway on any move it might make toward reconciliation of those differences, and.

2—The Agricultural Adjustment agency forbade its 200,000 field employees and committeemen to disseminate information about AAA farm programs through new channels.

Russell told reporters he was pleased that War Food Administrator Marvin Jones planned to consult with congressmen before making final decisions affecting future farm problems.

"It would do well for the administration and members of Congress to approach such conferences in a spirit of mutual helpfulness, and without chips on their shoulders," the senator added.

He said congressional sentiment still favored better farm prices rather than government subsidies, but he believed a "spirit of give and take" would iron out the differences of opinion on the subsidy question, as well as other issues.

His assertions followed an agricultural department interpretation of a provision in its new appropriation act which prohibited the use of federal funds in paying salaries and expenses of any AAA information employee. The announcement told the employees, as well as the state, county and local...

Hitler-Mussolini Meeting Reflects Peril of Italians

By THOMAS HAWKINS

BERN, July 21.—Informed diplomatic circles expressed belief today that Premier Mussolini had made an urgent appeal to Adolf Hitler for more help in the defense of his gravely threatened country when the Axis partners met Monday somewhere in northern Italy—perhaps Verona.

These sources agreed that immediate events in the battle of Sicily had prompted the conference, which apparently was held as American bombers pounded Rome, but most of them felt that the situation in Italy itself was the main topic of discussion.

In reaching this conclusion they pointed to recent Axis statements uniting that both Germany and Italy already regard the defense of Sicily as a lost cause.

The observers reasoned that if the Axis has given up hope of holding the island the next line of defense must be on the Italian mainland and that wars and means must be found of withdrawing the remnants of the Sicilian force and...

STRICT TAVERN RULES URGED

Council, Considering Curfew Law, Hears Police Favor Early Closing

Police are in favor of enforcing stricter beer parlor regulations as a means of curbing juvenile delinquency. Councilman-at-Large Fred A. Shaffer told other members of city council Tuesday night in connection with council's consideration of a curfew hour.

Shaffer reporting on the requested curfew law which was returned to a joint ordinance and safety committee of council following a recent civic meeting, said the committee met Monday night with police. Mayor R. R. Johnson and Safety Director Curtis Phillips were present.

It was during this caucus that the police heads declared a tightening up on the beer joints probably would do more good than a curfew ordinance.

Shaffer said the committee was deferring action on the curfew proposal pending an investigation of the existing ordinance regulating the hours of places selling beer and liquor.

Adopt S-lary Ordinance

The ordinance committee chairman also announced that the group expected to have an answer by the next meeting night to the request of Salem bowling fans for an ordinance to permit bowling after 2 p. m. on Sundays.

Final passage was given by the councilmen to an ordinance raising the salaries of four elective city officials, as of Jan. 1, 1944. The measure provides that the annual pay of the mayor be increased from $2,100 to $2,300; the auditor, from $2,000 to $2,400; the solicitor, from $1,800 to $2,000; and the treasurer, $360 to $450.

REDS CAPTURE NEW TOWNS IN NAZI ASSAULT

Drive to Encircle Germans Spreads to Donets, Mius River Fronts

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, July 21.—Fighting along the Russian front spread to the southern Donets and Mius river sectors yesterday as Red army troops recaptured town after town in their drive to encircle the Germans at Orel on the central front, the Russians reported today.

Russian armies thus were on the move on a front extending some 400 miles south from Orel to a point southwest of Voroshilovgrad, where the Soviet midnight communiqué said Russian forces had crossed the Mius river, improving their positions.

Heaviest fighting still raged, however, in the vicinity of Orel, where the Soviet army was closing in around the German supply base. Advances of from four to six miles were reported during the day's fighting which saw the Germans hurl 10 more futile counterattacks in an effort to halt the Russian advance.

Among the towns captured by the Russians, said a special bulletin, was Mtsensk, 31 miles northwest of Orel. The same Russian column was reported pushing on to the west.

Met Stubborn Resistance

The Red army force operating directly east of Orel meanwhile, the bulletin said, captured 20 villages in the day's fighting, including the railway station town of Voroshilov. On the southern flank a Soviet force took the city of Malo Arkhangel'sk, 39 miles from Orel, the communiqué said.

Russian advances were met by stubborn resistance all along the line, the war bulletin declared. Russians reported the desperate Nazi thrusts were accompanied by the same heavy loss of life and armored equipment which has marked the battle on the central front since its beginning 16 days ago.

The Russians also reported action at the southern end of the Kurak salient in the vicinity of Belgorod. Here the Red army has been busily engaged erasing the gains which the German army made in the opening days of the battle.

The Germans were hurling armored forces at the Russians and the communiqué said that in one engagement Soviet troops killed 400 Germans and disabled 17 tanks and three self-propelling guns.

Today's German communiqué acknowledged Nazi forces were engaged in "fierce battles of defense," especially east and north of Orel. It said Russian attacks south of Orel were "bloodily repulsed" and 133 Soviet tanks were destroyed during the day. Soviet attempts to break through Nazi lines on the Mius river and in the middle Donets were declared to have been repulsed.

(The Germans reported that from July 5 to 19 they captured 45,172 prisoners and destroyed 4,827 tanks and 2,344 planes on the eastern front.)

EIGHT OHIOANS DIE IN PLANE ACCIDENT

(By Associated Press)

ALLIANCE, Neb., July 21.—Eight of the 13 men killed in the crash of a C-47 transport plane near Malcolm, Neb., were Ohioans, the Alliance Army air base, the craft's home field, announced today. The crash occurred Monday.

Ohioans killed: Second Lieut. Edgar D. Rogers, Bay Village; Co-Pilot Corp. Edward Bloom, Ashland; Pfc. George Ralich, Lorain; Pfc. Joseph T. Jurevik, Cleveland; Pfc. Howard E. Weigand, Cleveland; Sgt. Robert D. Hager, Jr., Lima; Pfc. Chester Baczynski, Cleveland and Pfc. Samuel Ross, Cleveland.

Columbiana County In Midst Of One Of Heaviest Harvests

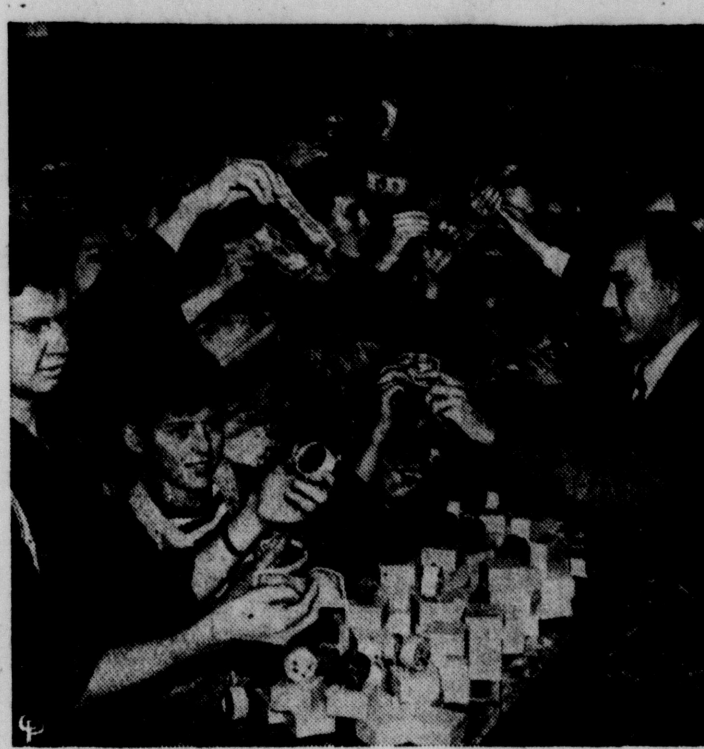

Columbiana county farmers are in the midst of one of the heaviest harvest in years, County Agricultural Agent Floyd Lower said today.

Exceptionally fine yields are expected in the wheat crop now being harvested, while the hay crop reached almost record proportions due to an abundance of rain this spring and early summer.

A fine yield also is expected of the oats crop which is now beginning to ripen and the outlook for corn is very favorable at this time although much of it was planted late due to the wet season, but prospects for maturing seem good, especially with a late fall.

Several farmers in the county operate their own combines and thresh the grain as it is cut and harvested all in one operation, but the majority of farmers still have to depend upon a visit from the thrasher and either thresh as the grain is hauled in from the field, or haul...

CLOCKS INCITED THIS MOB SCENE

ADVERTISED SALE of alarm clocks brought this mob scene to a North Hollywood, Cal., store as clock-hungry citizens jammed through the doors to buy the timepieces, of which there has been a shortage since the war started. There was only one perplexing thing. If all these people needed alarm clocks, how did they manage to get up early enough to buy them?

Bishop McFadden Honored For His Work In Cleveland

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, July 21.—Bishop James A. McFadden, first leader of the newly created Catholic diocese of Youngstown, was honored last night by leaders of the state and city and by laity of the Cleveland diocese where he served as priest and prelate for 38 years.

At a dinner and reception on the eve of his departure today for the new see, 500 laymen paid tribute to Bishop McFadden's work and presented him a $15,000 purse to aid in establishing the new Youngstown diocese.

Gov. John W. Bricker expressed gratitude that Bishop McFadden was staying in Ohio. "We need you here," the governor said. "We need your leadership in these days when too many men are trying to live without God."

Mayor Frank J. Lausche thanked Bishop McFadden for his "great contribution to the religious, civic and cultural welfare of Cleveland."

The prelate responded to the eulogies by expressing regret at leaving Cleveland where he had spent his priesthood, and his gratification at going to a field new as a diocese.

Installation Tomorrow

The new diocese will be formally announced tomorrow at Youngstown.

A civic reception is scheduled tonight in Youngstown's Stambaugh auditorium, following a private dinner. Two archbishops, at least 15 bishops, many monsignori and hundreds of priests from throughout the diocese will participate in the procession prior to the installation tomorrow.

Yesterday morning Bishop McFadden celebrated high pontifical mass, his last ecclesiastical act in Cleveland, in downtown St. John's cathedral. It was in the same cathedral that he had served as altar boy in childhood, and where he was ordained to the priesthood 38 years ago.

Coadjutor Bishop Edward F. Hoban presided at the mass, and later stepped aside to permit Bishop McFadden to occupy the throne of St. John—the sign of authority—for the first time since he was raised to Catholic hierarchy.

Fellow diocesan priests honored the bishop at luncheon yesterday, at which Msgr. Joseph S. O'Keefe, pastor of St. Mary's church in Akron, was toastmaster.

Msgr. John Motokowski, pastor of Cleveland's Immaculate Heart of Mary church, said at the luncheon "his years have left their mark, and his going to Youngstown will be a great loss to the diocese of Cleveland."

In a response, Bishop McFadden referred to the new diocese as one of the 25 largest in the United States, and said the seat of the new see "is in a valley that always has had its own ideals wrapped around everything that is Catholic."

BRITISH CLOSE IN ON ENEMY NEAR CATANIA

Axis Forces Reported In General Retreat From Central Region

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 21.—Enna, defense prop of central Sicily, has been captured by American and Canadian troops, it was announced today, forcing a general withdrawal of Axis forces from the central and western areas of the island.

British Eighth army troops closing in upon Catania, key to eastern Sicily, have shattered still another desperate German counter-attack with "very heavy casualties" and continued to squeeze in upon the seaport.

For all tactical purposes, half of Sicily is now in Allied hands. Enna's capture left the Axis commanders with but one east-west highway along the north coast, and an eastward movement of all troops was observed. It appeared a general withdrawal to the north-eastern tip of Sicily had begun.

Retreat To Messina

There, in the Messina area, the last stand and perhaps evacuation presumably will be staged. The fall of Enna threw the whole Axis communication system in Sicily in jeopardy, and quick collapse of resistance in the west and central areas was threatened.

(Rome reported Enna had been evacuated.)

The town controls the main highway and railroad lines running east and west across the mountainous island, and it thus cuts the German defenders of Catania off from contact with Italian forces in the west.

These Italian troops have been yielding ground rapidly and surrendering in huge numbers. Most of the German troops apparently are concentrated in the Catania area, battling desperately to hold the Eighth army from sealing off the entire east coast of Sicily by plunging through Catania up toward Messina.

With Enna's fall, the only contact between Catania and western Sicily is by a single roundabout road from Palermo and Termini on the north coast down around Mount Enna through Paterno, or by a still longer way along the coast to Messina and down the coastal road through Taormina.

Paterno itself is reported already threatened by British troops, and

Red Cross Chapter Progress Is Cited

Miss Hazel Linn, executive secretary of the Red Cross chapter, at a meeting of the local chapter, said that the chapter had made considerable progress in the last year and outlined future plans.

Through Red Cross training programs, she pointed out, a supply of volunteer workers has been made available to Salem for emergency use. Workers qualified to handle particular duties include 45 nurses aides, 65 nutrition experts, 45 sanitation workers, and 45 members. The chapter has established contact between servicemen and their families in time of urgent need through the sending of 600 telegrams.

The making and filling of 1440 kits bags has been partially completed, with 425 already sent to the national chapter. The workers are seeking pocket editions of popular fiction, mystery and non-fiction to put in the bags yet to be filled. Persons having books to donate should contact chapter officials.

Organization of a Junior Red Cross, in response to requests from young people who wish to contribute further to the war effort, is under way, Miss Linn said. Work

New Owners Must File Rental Registrations

New owners of rental properties are required to advise the area rent administrator of their purchases and file with him a new registration in their names. All rented units, whether rooms, apartments or houses, must be registered, James A. Willey, OPA rent inspector, said today.

Willey will be at the Salem rationing board office from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. Thursday to assist persons with rent problems. The maximum legal rent for newly acquired properties, the inspector explained, will remain the same as it was on March 1, 1942, unless there has been a major capital improvement, an increase in services, furnishings or the number of rooms.

CURFEW AND DELINQUENCY

A common mistake in considering a curfew ordinance to curb after-dark activities of juveniles is that it would be a cure-all for such delinquencies. On the contrary, it would be the means of directly checking only a small minority of the cases. Those few, however, might be important to the extent of averting serious consequences and of deterring others. Best effect of all would be that of placing responsibility on parents, for the ordinance should be more severe on them than on the children.

Some local thought on the problem of juveniles and their wartime troubles is that something more constructive than police action is needed. Parental supervision and organized recreation, it is argued, would do more than a curfew law.

The good sense of this point of view cannot be questioned. Until it is backed up by action, however, it represents only a pious resolution. Juveniles do have their wartime troubles. Some parents are loafing on the job. There are young men and women getting "all mixed up" in their attitudes for lack of sympathetic counsel from some older person. It is an even bigger problem than described by the phrase "juvenile delinquency". It is a state of juvenile confusion like that which existed in 1918.

Parents are too busy making big money and turning part of it over to their children. The bad effect on boys and girls is apparent in their independent attitude toward light jobs and chores which could be beneficial to them if they were taught the value of assuming responsibilities. It is equally apparent in their attempts to ape their elders during leisure hours, especially at night.

Those who would like to do something about it that will be more helpful than adopting a curfew ordinance are on the right track. But merely being on the right track isn't enough. They need to get moving. Unless or until they do, a curfew would be most useful. It should be considered in the light of putting the responsibility on parents, where it belongs, with no intention of arresting or confining juveniles.

ANCIENT AND MODERN ROME

As they promised they would whenever it became necessary, the Allies have bombed modern Rome—one of the three Axis capitals.

They have not bombed the ancient Rome of religious and secular significance. They have not concentrated on historic buildings, as Germany did when it bombed the ancient city of London and carried on a series of "Baderer raids" against England. They have kept their pledge to the families of Axis soldiers not to let them be imperiled needlessly by the use of modern military installations in Rome.

The bombing has been done in the face of certainty that Italian and German propagandists intended to retaliate with a barrage of claims calculated to stir indignation and regret. The Allies have had to rely not only on the skill of their pilots and bombardiers in finding the proper targets but on the skill of their people in finding the truth.

Primary target, according to the Allied announcement, was the railroad center being used to send reserve troops and equipment south for the battle of Sicily. The indicated time of the raid, in the middle of the day, suggests it may have depended on United States planes and crews, specializing in daylight precision bombing. Responsibility for the first attack is shared by the United States and Britain.

Other attacks will follow, unless Italy adopts the previous suggestion to declare Rome an open city. That would mean removal of all military installations and inspection by outsiders to confirm Rome's non-military status. It would amount to Italy's surrender—its unconditional surrender, as specified at Casablanca. Italians, who are responsible for the preservation of Rome, still have that alternative. If they fail to choose it, they can rely on nothing but the accuracy of the Allied airmen to save themselves and the monuments they have jeopardized by letting Mussolini lead them into militarism.

TIRES AND GASOLINE

A projected cut in gasoline rations for the area between the Appalachians and the Rockies needs more than equality of sacrifice with automobile owners in eastern states to justify it. There is something more compelling. Its disappearance from official explanations is passing strange.

The original justification for gasoline rationing was conservation of automotive transportation. The object was to save mileage on irreplaceable tires and irreplaceable automobiles. It was not until the eastern oil supply began to feel the drain of tremendous military demand through Atlantic ports early last winter that emphasis was shifted to gasoline and oil.

The rubber shortage still is the major threat to automotive transportation. There is more danger of essential automobiles being laid up from lack of tires than from lack of gasoline, despite development of a synthetic rubber industry theoretically capable of furnishing material for new tires. As has been explained recently by the president of the Seiberling Rubber Co., manufacturing problems raised by the use of the new material still haven't been solved; tire factories don't expect to be able to meet the demand until late next year. Meanwhile, tires are wearing out.

Mid-westerners who do not follow the official explanation that they must curtail non-essential driving because easterners have curtailed theirs can still see undisputable logic in the original contention of the Betrich committee that the primary reason for gasoline rationing is conservation. Otherwise, the projected cut in gasoline rationing would be open to suspicion as a move to placate eastern motorists.

INITIATIVE, enterprise, originality and exceptional ingenuity may have a golden opportunity for reaching the heights of lofty ambitions and long-cherished goals of expansive scope and surprising magnitude, judging by the powerful astral operations. It should be a time for reaching toward desired goals with all the natural resources and concentrated energies. New, original or ingenious ideas and plans have appeal, especially through writings, travel, agencies, or other exceptional pursuits or skills. Strangers may assist, and there may be public recognition or promotion.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of surprising advancement or recognition with enhanced personal popularity as well as business or professional prestige. Mainly new, novel, or strange ideas or propositions have appeal best promoted by travel, writings, agencies, or some manner of bold or unique adventure. Push to cherished goals under this expansive, generous and highly productive and progressive influence within clever work as well as good luck play a signal part in achieving fame, fortune and happiness.

A child born on this day may have many excellent abilities and natural resources for reaching high goals in fortune, fame and personal influence and prestige. Many unique adventures highlight its life.

As things are now, we can't help but wonder at how strange it seems that a dog that doesn't have to pay taxes is mad enough to bite somebody.

The suggestion that experts check on Federal spending doubtless will be regarded by New Dealers as a revolutionary interference in their domain.

Another thing we note is the fellow who says: "Of course, it's strictly none of my business, but I just thought you ought to know."

Congressmen should not get the idea that they are the only persons in this country who are weary.

MILITARY OBJECTIVE—"HEEL" OF THE BOOT!

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

The Hospital of the Future Discussed

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IF ANYONE wonders what can be done with our sudden excess of manpower labor after the war and thinks the W.P.A. did all the building necessary for a long time to come, all he had to do is look at the downtown layout of our large and medium-sized American cities.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Of the dozen with which I am familiar only downtown Los Angeles does not look actually shabby, looks as if some business were going on there. Most cities enjoyed a building boom just before the automobile came into its own; when it did and people moved out into the countryside, little suburban business sections sprouted and it wasn't necessary to go "down-town" to market and shop; local movie houses and attractive little cafes replaced the night downtown theatre and hotel life.

Outmoded Hospitals: The consequence is that most American cities downtown now look like the relatives you used to send your old clothes to. The tired, habby, empty buildings stand in discolored rows, with real estate banners glued to the inside of their dirty plate-glass windows. The owners of downtown real estate are bewildered, afraid even to replace a cracked wash bowl for fear it may run into expense.

Here, then, is the opportunity of the planner with genius!

Among the many kinds of buildings that have become outmoded, the hospital constitutes an eminent example. The architect of the hospital that was built 25 years ago was just another architect; he grudgingly, after the plans were drawn, made some space for a laboratory in the cellar. Five years after the building had been occupied, they had to tear down some partitions to make way for an x-ray department, and later an electrocardiographic laboratory, and later a basal metabolism room, and now they are faced with making room for a laboratory of electroencephalography.

Twenty-five years ago a hospital was still largely a surgical hospital. During that time the habit of having additions to the family at the hospital instead of at home has come in. So one floor of the old hospital was remodelled for a maternity floor. One-third of a good, modern hospital is given over to medical cases. If anyone wants the consultation of an oculist, ear or nose and throat specialist, the patient has to be bunched down to the specialist's office.

The New Hospital Unit

The Architectural Forum has just published a set of designs of buildings, foreshadowing postwar construction. The hospital unit is the work of Hugh Stubbins, Jr.

One feature of the new ideas in hospital construction is that the hospital will occupy a good deal of ground space and will be on one, two, or at most, four floors—preferably two.

The plan of the Architectural Forum visualizes one hospital for a community of 700,000 people.

"Authorities agree that two per cent of the population are ill at any one time. This would amount to 2,000 persons. One quarter of those ill, or 500, will need to be hospitalized—hence a hospital of 500 beds."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

THESE two important steps may help you overcome the discomforts or embarrassment of sour stomach, jerky nerves, loss of appetite, underweight, digestive complaints, weakness!

A person who is operating on only a 70 to 75% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped. So with ample stomach digestive juices PLUS rich, red-blood you should enjoy that sense of well being which denotes physical fitness... mental alertness! If you are subject to poor digestion or suspect deficient red-blood as the cause of your trouble, yet have no organic complication or focal infection, SSS Tonic may be just what you need as it is especially designed to promote the flow of vital digestive juices in the stomach and to build-up blood strength when deficient.

Build Sturdy Health so that the Doctors may better serve our Fighting Forces. Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits SSS Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." GYRO-COMPASSES?"

THIS WAS THE QUESTION the U. S. Navy asked us on February 5, 1942.

Our answer, "We ought to be able to... How soon can we see one?"

With the coming of the war these gyro-compasses were needed in large quantity to equip the ships of our rapidly expanding Navy and Merchant Marine. They had never been built in quantity production.

To save time one of the big thirteen hundred pound Sperry Gyro-Compasses was sent from Brooklyn to Detroit by fast passenger train. It was in our hands next morning and we took it apart for study, piece by piece.

The gyro-compass is an intricate, scientific instrument of navigation which unerringly points (and holds) true North. It is not influenced by electrical or magnetic disturbances that affect the ordinary compass.

The heart of the gyro-compass is its large fifty pound rotor, a kind of fly-wheel, which is spun at the rate of six thousand revolutions a minute by its own in-built electric motor.

IT FINDS THE TRUE NORTH AND KEEPS IT

We found the compass to contain over ten thousand mechanical parts, with delicate electrical arrangements whereby the East-West sensation of the world itself, and the constant forces of gravity, are harnessed and used for direction and control of the spinning rotor.

Promptly we sent men of wide experience in precision manufacture, electrical engineering and mechanical processes to Brooklyn, New York, where they studied at first hand the technical construction and assembly of this intricate mechanism. They were greatly aided in these studies by the Sperry Gyro-compass Company, Inc., long experienced in gyro-compass manufacture.

Study of the drawings, specifications and parts of the compass, helped us decide which parts we would manufacture ourselves and which we would sub-contract to other companies. Our master mechanics made plans for more than five thousand special tools and fixtures. Our planning department began to order production material. We made the final selections of men from our organization whose abilities clearly fitted them for supervision of the many tasks of gyro-compass manufacture. We placed our first orders among three hundred and fifty subcontractors.

While these things were going on we began to build two complete compasses without waiting for completion of our regular production facilities. By the time these jobs were finished our manufacturing arrangements were made and the quantity production of gyro-compasses actually began.

EVERY PIECE AND EVERY ASSEMBLY TESTED FOR BALANCE AND PRECISION

In our production program we were guided by the same principles that we had used successfully in the building of cars and trucks. We believe that if each individual part of the machine (however intricate) is made right, and the assembly of the parts are right, the finished product cannot help but be right.

In manufacturing the gyro-compass all of the thousands of big and little parts undergo the most rigorous test and inspection. They must always register a perfect score in their successive balance and precision trials.

When a compass is completed it is given its final test on a special machine which accurately duplicates the roll, pitch, and yaw of a vessel navigating a very rough sea.

WE HAD TO DUPLICATE THE PITCH AND TORS OF THE OCEAN FOR OUR FINAL TEST

When this test is concluded, and the final adjustments are made, the compass is ready for immediate installation on the ships of the Navy and Merchant Marine.

This very rapid calendar of events is, of course, our most gratifying answer to the question asked us by the Navy on Feb. 5, 1942—"Can You People Make Gyro-Compasses?"

It gives us something of a thrill to know that for many months now proud new ships of the Navy and Merchant Marine are going to sea guided by Sperry Gyro-Compasses of our manufacture,—and that we have been able to master the art of gyro-compass making from a production background concerned largely with the engineering and building of fine motor cars and trucks.

AMERICAN BRED by FRANKENMELONEY

SYNOPSIS

There was no threat of stormy weather when pretty Ann Rivers left her married sister's swank home in Bar Harbor, Maine. But on a lonely road outside Providence, she ran into a sleet storm—and a ditch—from which her car refused to budge. At the Tru-Frend Tourist Bungalow, where she sought help, the brusque young proprietor informs her the telephone is out of order. Paul Freund's home is out of order, a kindly old lady, blind mother, and the brusque young proprietor informs her the telephone is out of order. Paul Freund's home is out of order, a kindly old lady, blind mother, and the brusque young proprietor informs her the telephone is out of order. Paul Freund's home is out of order, a kindly old lady, blind mother, and the brusque young proprietor informs her the telephone is out of order.

"Why not?" she demanded. "Firstly, you don't know anything about Dances, and secondly, you'd lose your—er, investment." Her lips tightened. She felt like her sister Helen. "Perhaps you're right," she said sweetly, and fitted the key into the latch of the side door.

The house had an uninvited-in chill. "There's a fire in the library, and we can eat in there," she suggested.

"Fine!" Christopher said. "I'll go down to the farmer's cottage and get some milk and cream and eggs."

"Shall I go down with you?" "No. I want to talk to Tompkins anyway. Stay here with the pups, I won't be long."

Gretel lay down with a gusty sigh before the fireplace; but Rowena, possessive and alert, slipped out with Ann.

Christopher, left alone, thrust his hands into his pockets and rocked on his heels. He whistled lightly and tonelessly between pursed lips. He looked about the room. Libraries had a way of telling a lot about the people who used them. The poetry shelves caught his eye first. The classics, Greek Anthology, Cavalier poetry. The moderns were few and choice. Red blooded romanticism with a leavening of Greek sanity, he decided. There were few novels too, the mountain-tops of several centuries. Whoever brought these books together didn't believe in small talk or puffing thought," he told himself.

Then flanking the desk, he came on the law volumes. He wondered suddenly if this girl were married. She didn't look married—nor divorced, or widowed either. His eye sought further clue to her, and found it—a short row of books by William Rivers. Of course, William Rivers, whose works on Constitutional law were guide posts in that field, must be her father. And he had died several years back, leaving his daughter to manage an estate against a world of tumbling finances. Christopher Wain relaxed. Many of his questions had found their answers.

He threw another log on the fire and with his back against the glowing warmth, stood looking through to the drawing room beyond. The house was old and beautiful, and spelled a civilized, comfortable living that was growing rare. These rooms weren't built or furnished for the hectic, meaningless kind of entertaining that went on in his own crowd. Thirty or forty people barging in at a time, some of them strangers, and hour after hour of shrill laughter, blaring music, liquor, flirtations—and eventually, satiation and disgust.

No. This was the kind of home in which a marriage could form roots and grow, the kind of a home he had wanted to have with Brenda. Instead, he had found himself in a Westchester monstrosity of brick and mortar. He hated it and Brenda loved it. Well it was hers for the taking.

"Hi!" A voice called, and there was a rattling at a door somewhere. Gretel, barking officiously, guided him to the pantry.

"My arms are full," Ann puffed as she opened the door for her. "I've got some bacon, home-cured, you've never tasted the like."

"Wonderful! Look here a second. You seem upset."

"Nothing to fuss about really," she explained. "It's our farmer. Too much drink. The horses haven't been fed, and they were left out last night in all that storm."

"And so you're going to do your own chores?"

"Yes. Tompkins has been dismissed. I gave him until we finished lunch to get off the place."

"You mean that you just up and fired him?"

"Certainly. Now—scrambled or fried?" She held two eggs poised over the pan.

"Scrambled."

Ann cracked the eggs in the pan as she went on. "This farm means a lot of work. The horses must be put in the stables and they get good warm mash and a rub-down, and there are three cows that weren't milked this morning. And then, when all of that has been done, I'll find out where I go from there, and maybe begin to look through my hats for another farmer."

"Maybe you'd better break out a couple of more eggs. I feel hungry already." Christopher tumbled a generous extra tablespoon of coffee into the pot. "I'm quite a cook in my own way," he volunteered.

"Good." She fished into her purse and drew out a checkbook and a fountain pen. "If you're such a cook in your own way, can you finish scrambling those eggs?"

Christopher busied himself at the stove and Ann, seated at the kitchen table, began counting out some mental arithmetic on her fingers. "How much is twenty-two-thirds of a hundred and ten?" she queried, when her eight fingers and two thumbs failed her.

"Eighty dollars and sixty-seven cents," he replied after a few seconds of mental arithmetic. "Do you like Worcestershire sauce in the eggs?"

Ann nodded her whole-hearted approval. "And anchovies," she added.

He was enchanted. "Have we anchovies?"

"Nope. Nor Worcestershire either."

She wondered about this Mr. Christopher Wain. The small pieces of the jig-saw personally didn't fit, and didn't make a clear picture. He raised dogs and didn't look as if he was very successful at it; he liked Worcestershire on an egg; he knew how to figure like an adding machine, and he wore crepe-soled shoes which she detested. Withal, however, he was charming. His voice was that of a gentleman, and his hands were really fine, with strong rounded nails and no signet ring. Paul Freund wore a signet ring. Somehow it seemed a part of dog business.

She folded the check. "I'll be back in a minute."

"Let me take it over for you. He might want to argue the matter or be nasty."

"You tend to the eggs, and I'll take care of Mr. Tompkins," she replied grimly. "And I like my bacon crisp."

Christopher stirred the eggs, in conflict. On the table beside him lay the open checkbook, and within it was a consuming curiosity. Or was it curiosity? Part of his business in life was making sense out of people. Her generalship the night before in the Freund crisis was grotesque at the odds with the picture of a young woman violating traffic laws at one and the same time, and her mental arithmetic was in direct opposition to the clear thinking which enabled her to fire an ugly-tempered farmer-hand and take over his not inconsequential duties without batting an eye.

His indecision resolved into ignominious surrender. He moved to the table, and gave a smug grunt at what he saw. Very obviously Miss Rivers was a young woman who bogged down in the mysteries of a checkbook, for eighty dollars and sixty-seven cents subtracted from one hundred and eleven dollars and five cents did not leave forty dollars and forty-eight cents. Undoubtedly there would come a day when the bank would inform her that things were wrong to the extent of ten dollars and ten cents.

He felt like a very unpleasant person sticking his nose into other people's business, but as he couldn't feel any more unpleasant about it, he turned over the preceding stub and glanced at that, too. It wasn't a very difficult calculation. If she had her dates right, she had drawn twenty dollars to cash, sixteen days before. Not a very active account, he noted. The pictures made just a little too much sense to be ignored. He let his gaze run out across the lawns to the meadows which filed away in neatly fenced squares to the distant woods. This was a pretty big show for a girl without capital to swing, he decided somberly, and she was coming up against a wall which was too high a jump for her to take.

CHAPTER TWELVE

"And I was thinking," Ann began when Christopher broke in with, "If you're thinking about chasing after every pretty girl they see, you're on the wrong track."

"If that were personal, I might take an exception, but since it isn't I'm still hungry so let's see what can be done about it."

Spoken like a lawyer. Overruled, but exception allowed. I was talking about pretty girls. There might be a distinction in language."

Ann studied him for a brief instant; then moved off toward the house. "What do you know about lawyers?" she asked curiously.

"Oh, I know a few of them," he said, and whistled to the pups who raced across the lawn to his side.

"You told me you were in the dog business," she reminded him.

"I told you I had kennels," he corrected her.

"Is business so slow?" Paul Freund was complaining, too.

"It's dull," he agreed soberly; "that is, if you're dependent on what you take in—"

"Then that lets me out—"

"Of what?"

"Starting anything."

"Kennels? Don't," He advised her bluntly.

As proud a uniform as any man wears

It's not much to look at. No gold braid, no polished brass.

Just a plain pair of denim overalls—tossed on the handiest peg after a day of the hardest kind of fighting.

They're more than a little baggy at the knees, from constant stooping and kneeling.

They're sweat-stained and dirt-stained with the heavy dust of lime and fertilizer.

Yes, and they're grease-stained because the farmer, with all his other chores, now finds it necessary to be his own mechanic. (Those precious machines must not fail!)

But this is a uniform to be worn proudly . . . for the men who wear it yield to no man in courage, spirit and determination. It is the uniform of one of America's most essential fighting men—the farmer, on whom we depend for the food of life and victory.

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have headaches? ☐ YES ☐ NO

Do you lack pep or vigor? ☐ YES ☐ NO

Do you get irritable easily? ☐ YES ☐ NO

Do you feel depressed—nervous? ☐ YES ☐ NO

Do you feel headachy—depressed—irritable—tired—due to a sluggish, constipated condition? Do you want faster and more effective all-around relief than you can get from an ordinary simple laxative alone? Then, as medical science proves, you should do two things:

1. Get liver bile flowing freely.

2. Clear out the intestinal tract.

To do both, take double-acting Carter's Little Liver Pills tonight. The first thing Carter's usually do while you're comfortably asleep is to increase the flow of liver bile—a vital digestive juice. This helps to digest your food properly. This first Carter action alone may make you feel much better when you wake up!

Then, Carter's second action helps relieve the sluggish condition that may easily be at the bottom of all your headachy, depressed, tired feeling.

Carter's double action is due to their special formula. Thousands know how well they work. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25¢ at any drugstore. Take as directed. You'll be glad you did.

What It Means —

The Post-War Food Battle

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON — You can look for the battle of food to continue, not only for the duration, but probably for two years or more after the United Nations are victorious in Europe.

Europe's need of food will be much greater after military operations are ended on the continent than it is now. All of the countries, with the possible exception of Sweden, Switzerland, Portugal and Germany, will have experienced several years of serious undernourishment or near-starvation.

Larger Consumption

The relief burden will have to be carried mainly by the big five producers of wheat, meat and dairy products—the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Argentina. How much of that burden can and shall be shouldered by Uncle Sam promises to be a primary headache problem for the post-war administration and Congress, be they Democratic or Republican.

Rationing of most foods in this country so far has been the result largely of increased consumption by civilians, millions of whom have been receiving larger income and buying more and better food during the war-production boom.

Government food authorities say the shortage of meat, aside from marketing difficulties, has been almost wholly a reflection of this increased civilian buying. Military consumption was a smaller factor.

For example, practically no beef has been sent out under lend-lease. In 1942, lend-lease food shipments of all kinds represented only 6½ per cent of our total food supply while the shortage of meat, aside from marketing difficulties, has been almost wholly a reflection of this increased civilian buying. Military consumption was a smaller factor.

Larger Shipments Due

Food officials say that our food shipments abroad now are a drop in the bucket compared with what relief demands will be when armistice day comes. According to the Secretary of Agriculture Paul Appleby, chief U. S. delegate to the recent international food conference, "it simply would not be possible to take out of consumption in this country sufficient food to give Europeans only two-thirds of a normal diet."

"The only food we can send to Europe will be food we ourselves haven't eaten," Appleby says. "We should be rationing ourselves now to build up large stocks as possible for that need. We should continue rationing for some time after the war is over for that need."

It will take time for the hungry countries to reestablish their agriculture or to rehabilitate their industries in order to pay in goods for the food they receive. That means U. S. citizens may have to foot the relief food bill in the form of high food prices or eventual taxation to finance subsidies, or perhaps both.

The post-war Congress will have a lot to say about the business of food relief. Voters already chafing at food restrictions, food prices and heavy taxes will be eager to return to "normalcy" as soon as possible. And it's a good bet that rationing will be more unpopular than ever.

More than three million people in the United States have syphilis.

YANKS, CANADIANS MARCH INTO ENNA

Axis Forces Reported In General Retreat After Defenses Collapse

The entire Messina-Catania coastal road is vulnerable to aerial and sea bombardment.

Pincer Movement Works

The American and Canadian troops had thrown a powerful pincer upon the town by advancing from Caltanissetta, taken by the U. S. Seventh army units, and from the Piazza Armerina, which fell to the Canadians.

Enna is 34 miles north of Gela, and 30 miles below the north coast of Sicily. It is some 45 miles west of Catania.

The Americans and Canadians drove on deeper into the island after Enna fell yesterday. At Catania, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's troops made new gains in battles that left the fields carpeted with enemy dead. Front line reports indicated the Germans sent wave after wave of troops and armor in strong counter drives against the British columns.

Large numbers of both German and Italian troops cut off in the Enna area were being rounded up, indicating that the Americans and Canadians had swept them too fast to permit them to escape. The total number of prisoners was not stated.

Allied air forces were sweeping over Sicily in strength in support of the furious assaults aimed at collapsing all enemy resistance in the shortest possible time.

Italians Complain

Italians complained against their own government as well as the Germans. The Nazis, they declared, were repeating their African tactics of abandoning them every time the situation became hopeless, fleeing in all available transport.

The Fascist government had given them too few guns and food, and issued obsolete transports, armor and ammunition.

At Catania, the Germans were putting up the fiercest opposition, but headquarters reported "steady progress" by the British with "very heavy casualties" inflicted on the Nazis.

Units of fierce French Moroccan troops, the Colonne, famous as guerrilla fighters, have been in action, headquarters said without disclosing details of their activities.

The great aerial war continued to strike at weakening Axis communication lines, raining bombs particularly upon airfields and hitting road transport.

Decimomannu airfield in Sardinia was attacked in daylight by fighter-bombers that downed five Axis planes, and on Sunday night medium bombers struck at the communications center of Randazzo, northwest of Catania. Six Axis aircraft were listed as lost.

Enters Critical Stage
With Italian defenses fading and the Germans fighting only a desperate delaying action, the Axis position in Sicily appeared to be entering a critical phase.

Italian soldiers, choosing between surrender and continuation of a struggle which could serve only to lay more of the island in ruins, were reported officially to be mutinying against their German officers and giving themselves up in droves.

No Axis propagandist now dared a public prediction that Sicily would be spared from conquest and the alibi of defeat—by superior forces on land and sea and in the air—already had been prepared by Fascist leaders in Rome, who gloomily spoke of the prospects of an Allied invasion on the Italian peninsula itself.

More than 35,000 Axis prisoners had been rounded up in the Allied drive and evidence of the hatred the Italians hold for the Germans was mounting.

In some instances crowds had to be restrained from attacking German prisoners as they were marched through the streets and the inhabitants habitually broke into cat-calls at the sight of captured Nazis.

Sheriff to Issue Permits For Repainting Licenses

LISBON, July 21. — Sheriff George Hayes has received authorization from the state department of motor vehicles for issuance of permits to car owners to remove one license plate at a time from their cars for repainting of the plates.

Paint has worn off plates, the sheriff said, to the extent, in many cases, of making plates illegible and such licenses should be re-lettered immediately by the car owners, after securing a permit from the sheriff's office for removal of the plate. Only paint corresponding to the original colors, dark green on white background, may be used, however.

State law specifies that the rear plate must be legible from a distance of 50 feet. Hayes explained that his office may order a car owner to repaint plates which are not clear.

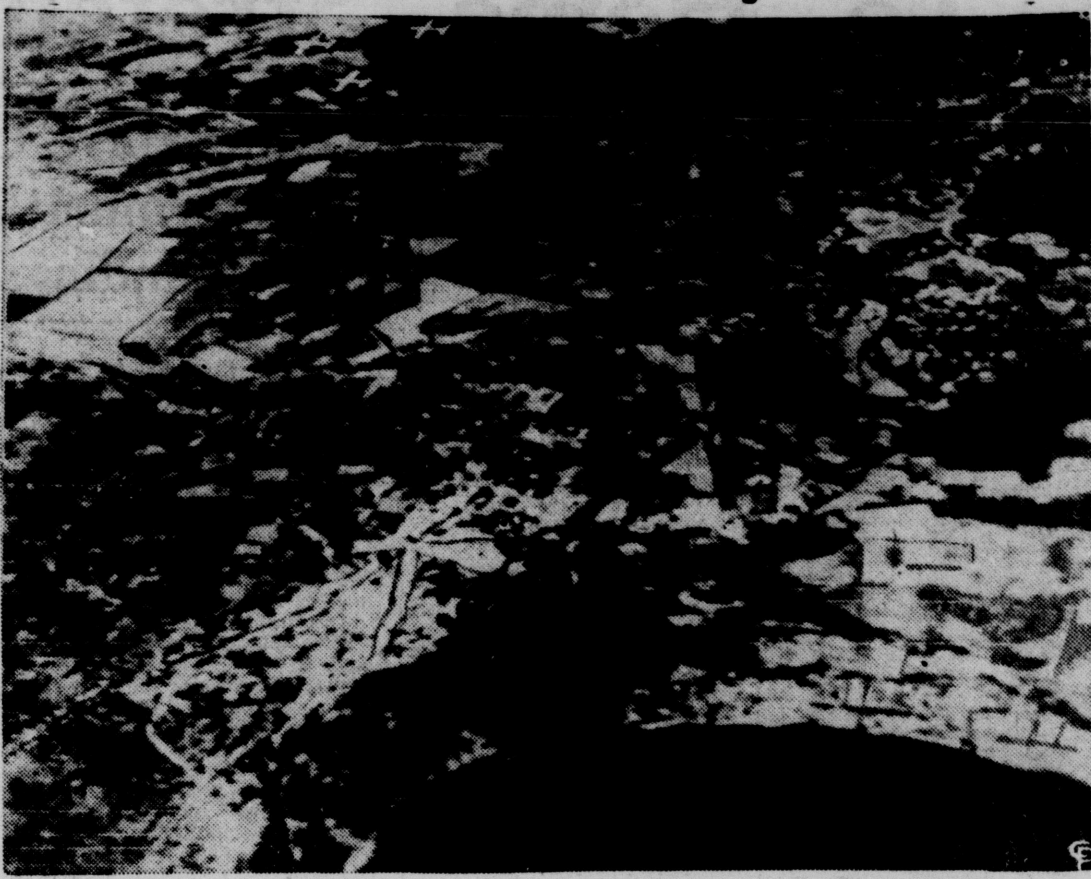

"Rick's" Son In Marines To Carry On—On Ground

NEW YORK, July 21.—David Edward Rickenbacker, 18-year-old son of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, is off to carry on the family traditions in this war, but he'll do it as a Marine's uniform on the ground.

Young Rickenbacker was sworn in as a Marine Corps private yesterday and will report for basic training at Parris Island, N. C., in two weeks.

He said he chose the Marines because "the Marines are always in action and in the thick of things" and expressed a wish to be an airplane mechanic, not a pilot like his famous father.

reorganizing to resist an Allied landing.

Obviously, informed sources said, one of the big problems of effective resistance to the Allies is air power. They pointed out that even the Axis press had acknowledged Allied air superiority in the Sicilian theater, while the Allies have reported only negligible resistance to their aerial assaults.

Military observers estimate the Axis has 5,000 to 6,000 planes in combat on all European fronts. Of this approximately 1,800 to 2,100 are said to be fighter planes, backed up by a reserve of unknown quantity.

They agreed that if the Allies were to be quarantined on Sicily and the Italian mainland saved by an effective delaying action on the island this reserve must be thrown into the battle.

They pointed out, however, that the question was a tough one for Hitler, since it is upon the German air force, which is larger and better trained than the Italian, that the brunt of the fighting would fall.

There were two sides to the question confronting Hitler, observers believed. First: Would German commitments in Russia, the Balkans, in occupied France and Norway, and at home be endangered, and, second, is bomb-blasted Italy a good risk?

Party Differences Assailed By Taft

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 21.—Deploping what he termed efforts of some "hot-headed" Republicans to "stir up and keep alive" pre-war party differences, Sen. Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati, O., Republican, asserted: "I can't see why anyone interested in Republican success in 1944 could call other Republicans a lot of names when there seems to be no wide difference in the party."

Taft's assertions were made to reporters as he commented on developments occurring in an unofficial Republican post-war policy association meeting in New York Monday.

Mayo Shattuck, president of the Massachusetts Bar association and chairman of the policy association's resolution committee, told the New York meeting the people should be shown that election of a Republican administration "does not mean another gang of inward-turning, narrow-minded, isolationist, stuffed shirts."

Taft said he thought resolutions adopted at the New York meeting "were very reasonable," but added: "It will do neither the party nor the country any good to call names in discussions of what differences remain."

Paratrooper Relates Story Of Hospital Ship Bombing

BY GEORGE TUCKER

CAIRO, July 19.—(Delayed)—An American parachute trooper furnished an eyewitness account today of the bombing of the Hospital Ship Talamba five miles off the beaches of Sicily.

The hospital ship was attacked despite the fact that it was brilliantly lighted and clearly marked. Pvt. Jack Flynn, Detroit, Mich., reported.

(Allied headquarters on July 12 announced that an Allied hospital ship, fully lighted, was sunk the previous night off the Sicilian coast. Four hundred wounded aboard were transferred successfully, it added.)

Flynn said that neither this attack nor other misfortunes of war prevented American and British hospital field units from doing their job.

Casualties were brought first to the African mainland, where they received additional medical care. Then they were flown 1,500 miles east to Cairo.

Flynn broke a leg when his chute caught as he descended into a ravine. Two fellow troopers helped him to a dressing station on the beach.

Blames Italian Pilot

"That night they put me aboard the Hospital Ship Talamba. I had just had dinner and gone to bed when a lone Italian bomber came over and attacked. I scored a hit, circled away, came back and scored another hit. This was at 10 o'clock at night. The ship blazed with lights from stem to stern. It couldn't have been mistaken for anything else."

Flynn described how a British nurse moved among the wounded men, calmly telling them, "all who can walk should come up on deck and have a look around."

"I hobbled on deck as the ship began to list badly. We were about five miles off shore. I got into a lifeboat and we started to lower away, but the rope broke and we fell into the sea. Everybody sank, but bobbed to the surface again, as our life belts were on."

"I climbed into another boat which had been hastily lowered, but it sank at once as somebody had neglected to put the rain plugs in. We climbed into a third lifeboat and it also sank. By that time I had swallowed plenty of water and didn't want to try any more lifeboats, so I swam over to a destroyer which had just come up and was hauled on deck."

"They transferred me to another hospital ship, then put me on a troop transport and evacuated me to the mainland for the flight down here. I feel fine—getting plenty of good sleep and rest."

Television's Coming Upon War's Close

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 21.—Television—called by scientists the "flesh and blood of sight and sound"—will be ready for every family's use "immediately after the war," Ralph R. Beal, research director for the Radio Corporation of America, said without reservation today.

Home receiving sets in any desired size with "screens" from six to 24 inches in width will be available to purchasers, Beal said, "within the shortest space of time required to re-convert the radio manufacturing industry from war to peace production."

"Unquestionably, television receiving sets will be within the range of the average pocketbook," Beal said, "and we expect to be able to do a good job of programming without too many awkward growling noises."

Among the feasible facts about television in the post-war period, Beal said a network of automatic monitor stations would be employed to relay television's images and sound from a central transmitting tower to any desired distance.

Thus a planned relay from New York to Washington could be extended to any part of the country.

MINE OPERATORS SEEK FEDERAL AID

Threaten To Shut Down Pits Unless Given Immediate Advance

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, July 21. — Coal mine operators have threatened to shut down their mines unless given an immediate advance of federal funds. Carl E. Newton, deputy federal coal administrator, disclosed last night.

"I have received dozens of telegrams from mine operators urging immediate advance of federal funds and threatening to shut down their mines unless these funds are forthcoming," Newton told the American Mining congress in a radio broadcast.

"Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes and I have resolutely resisted all of these pressures. To date not one dollar has been advanced to any coal operator," he asserted.

In his first public utterance since he left the presidency of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad July 1 to help Ickes run the mines taken over by the government May 1 when the first of three general strikes broke out, Newton warned:

"If unsettled (labor) conditions which precipitated this crisis should long endure, or if the government should turn the mine back and have to take them over again repeatedly, then I don't see how you can reasonably expect to avoid a progressive tightening of government supervision and control."

Newton declared there "is nothing rather than to turn your mines back to you tomorrow. Until we can, however, we have the duty to see that the mines are operated so that coal is produced to fuel our national war requirements."

He said he objected to government in business because "the deliberative and regulatory machinery of government produces delays and does not produce effective com-

Traffic Fatalities On Highways Show 48 Per Cent Drop

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, July 21. — Traffic deaths on rural Ohio highways declined 48 per cent during the first half of 1943, compared to the corresponding period last year, State Highway Director Hal G. Sours reported today.

To July 1, traffic accidents on state roads outside cities took 141 lives, against 271 in 1942.

"If the downward trend continues," said Sours, "the number of highway deaths this year should be about 250 under the 1942 total of 550."

There were 2,887 traffic accidents reported on country roads during the six-month period, compared to 6,077 to July 1, 1942, a decline of 52 per cent.

A corresponding reduction in the number of persons injured also was recorded this year. There were 2,135 persons hurt in traffic mishaps to July 1, against 4,782 in the 1942 period.

Pedestrian fatalities on Ohio's war-busy highways have decreased only 20 per cent, Sours noted. Thirty-nine pedestrians were killed on rural roads during the first half of the year.

Commercial results when applied to business objectives... government procedures do not promote initiative, incentives or progress."

Major Leagues Settle Down To Home Stretch Drive

Recreations Drop Strains 4-3 In Last Inning Rally; Potters Beat Furnaces, 9-1

The Recreations pounded in two runs in the final stanza to sink the hapless Strains 4 to 3 in one of two Class A league softball games at the park last night.

Strains thought they had the game in the bag when the seventh inning rolled around, leading 3-2 by virtue of an extra tally in the third inning. But the not-to-be-outdone Recreations pushed one across the needed two runs and then shouted while the Strains moaned.

The Salem China nine drubbed the Electric Furnaces 9 to 1 in the other game. The Furnaces registered their lone tally in the fourth, while the Potters scored in all but one inning. Eight errors against the Furnaces didn't help matters any.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Philadelphia-Pittsburgh Eagles-Steelers are starting a bit of pre-season football practice tonight, which brings a resounding raspberry from pro football folks in this town. Spherical Steve Owen reports that the Giants have very good prospects of lining up a full squad to begin drills in mid-August—his club already has about 25 players signed.

IT AIN'T SO

A story circulating in Army circles that Kid Chocolate, one-time featherweight champion (N. Y. state variety) is back from Africa with both feet missing, has just one thing wrong with it. Havana reports that the original Kid is right there teaching amateur fighters at the "national academy of boxing" of the Cuban National sports department.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

Mell Ott tells scribes traveling with the Giants that Bobo Newsom had been waived out of the National League before that Brooklyn rookie even started. . . . Umpire Hinko, who worked the Dodgers-White Sox exhibition at Cooperstown, N. Y., makes the most of his opportunity. His chest protector carries an ad for a local tax company.

JAWBONE HEAVEN

Navy Petty Officer John Clark relays this one to the "thoroughbred record" from an Army buddy who has just returned from North Africa. . . . seems a month's supply of racing sheets were included in a match of magazines sent there. So the boys conceived the idea of selecting one day's sheet, studying the form charts and then selecting a horse apiece to back. Then they'd extract the next day's paper from the pile and learn whose nag had won the race. . . . A lot of soldiers never had seen a horse race, but it didn't take them long to learn all about the racing form.

SERVICE DEPT.

Marine Corps Correspondent Sgt. Donald Hallman reports a recent football game somewhere in the South Pacific between the "Redskins" headed by Capt. Louis Shine, who used to play fullback for Catholic U. and the "Bears," led by Lieut. Harry Wheeler, former Manhattan tackle. The local spectators decided the game was "too slow and too rough."

Tam O'Shanter Meet Is Three In One Event

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, July 21.—Golf on a tremendous scale—three tournaments rolled into one—was presented with theatrical setting. . . . Tam O'Shanter extravaganza today, the tournament became the nation's biggest golf show of the year when the professionals and women joined the amateur ensemble which has held the stage since Monday.

There were 200 swingers in action—105 professionals, 4 amateurs and 31 women.

While the surviving 64 qualifiers in the All American amateur were sweeping through their first day of match play, the pros battled for 71 places in the $10,000 All American open and the women played for 18 positions in their tournament—both of which start tomorrow at 72 holes of medal play.

Nelson Is Favorite

Blond Byron Nelson of Toledo, twice winner of the Tam open, was rated as a top-heavy favorite to repeat, while Miss Patty Berg, famed "checkered-faced" head of Minneapolis and Miss Betty Hicks of Long Beach, Calif., were favored to dominate the women's tournament.

Due to the list of pros exempted from playing a qualifying round today, none of the big guns in the pro ranks unsacked their shots other than in practice rounds. This situation gave the amateurs and the women the spotlight in today's play.

The windup of a qualifying round yesterday for amateurs installed Bill Chambers, a sailor from the nearby Great Lakes Naval training station, as medalist with a 36-hole total of 145, the lowest card in a field of 250.

Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., runner up to Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., in last year's Tam amateur, sizzled to a sub par 70 yesterday, the lowest round of the tournament and placed him along with six others in the 149 delegation.

Runner up to Chambers at 147 was Walter Kroll of South Bend, Ind.

Sgt. Joe Louis of the United States Army took a 36-hole total of 173 and failed to get into the select list.

William McCabe of Middletown, O., qualified with 77-80-157.

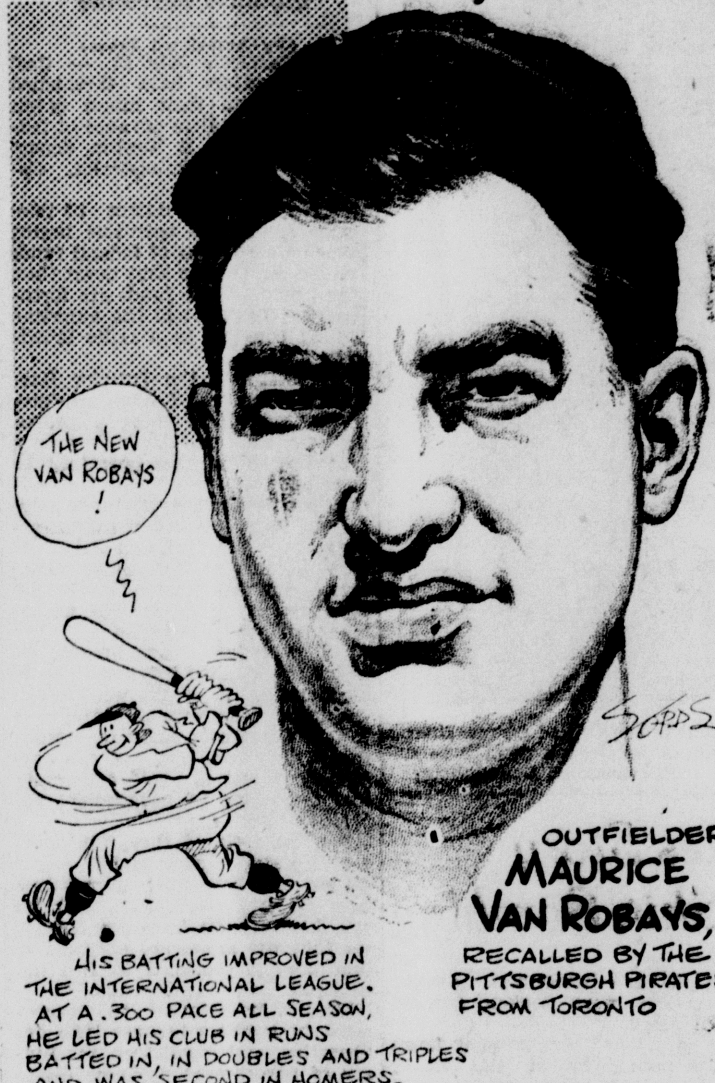

Edward Koski of Steubenville finished with 86-83-169, nine over the qualifying mark.

Fight Results

WASHINGTON—Bob Montgomery, 137½, Philadelphia, outpointed Frankie Willis, 144½, Washington (10).

NEW BEDFORD, Mass.—Jimmy McLarnin, 135, New Bedford, stopped Francis Leonard, 135, Taunton, Mass. (7).

The War Today

tured the city of Ilinskoye. Thus the Russians threaten Orel with complete encirclement, together with the forces of Field Marshal Guenther Von Kluge. There are the makings of disaster in the situation.

Today we hear that the Russians have extended their offensive southward clear to the Black sea. Hitler's who's right flank is in danger—a position of the utmost anxiety to him, in view of the Allied threat of invasion up through the Balkans against the area behind this right flank.

The Russians report that since July 5, when the Nazi drive started, the Red armies have captured several hundred villages, destroyed 3,516 tanks and 2,094 warplanes, and taken some 65,000 prisoners. Whether the Russians have the striking power to develop their attack into an unlimited offensive remains to be seen, but so far they are displaying great reserve strength.

Antonescu Refuses New Demands of Nazi Heads

(By Associated Press)

ISTANBUL, July 19.—(Delayed.)—Diplomatic sources said today Premier Ion Antonescu of Rumania had flatly refused German demands that Rumania participate in the fighting this summer against Russia.

Antonescu was reported to have told Nazi representatives two weeks ago that Rumania, already had made great sacrifices and henceforth would only defend her own borders.

The sources also said the Germans, in reprisal for this refusal, had threatened to turn pro-Nazi iron guards loose in Rumania to continue anti-semitic activity and terrorist campaigns which Antonescu suppressed late in 1941.

Clear Rail Wreckage

SALEM, July 21.—Traffic

was tied up three hours Tuesday when two cars of a 40-car freight train were derailed, blocking east and west bound Pennsylvania railroad tracks at nearby Summitville.

CHARLESTON, S. C.—A Charleston Shipyard worker reported the champion instance of an overcharge to his local war price and rationing board. He said he was in a barber's chair 20 minutes—had haircut, shampoo and shave. His bill was $6.50.

Daily Newspapers' Popularity Gains

NEW YORK, July 21.—Daily newspapers are hitting a new high record for subscription and newsstand sales—a rise equal to 3.9 per cent over pre-war sales—according to a survey by the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

The ABC report shows that 43,759,561 newspapers were sold by the total 1,733 United States dailies (English language) in the six months period ending March 31, 1943. This total compares with period sales of 42,080,391 by 1,857 papers during the six months period ended Sept. 30, 1941—showing that 104 fewer newspapers are averaging bigger daily sales.

At the same time, newspapers were forced to cut their size to meet the War Production Board's order curtailing the use of newspaper. Further popularity was indicated by the fact that average circulations continued to go up this year when the price of approximately 12 per cent of the nation's dailies was raised to 5 cents per copy.

Shortage of Food For Poultry Is Reported

CHICAGO, July 21.—There is a shortage of food for the nation's poultry, a poultry executive said today, and he urged the general public "not to try to raise baby chickens."

Don M. Turnbull, Kansas City, assistant executive secretary of the International Baby Chick Association, said "there is more poultry in the country now than we can feed."

He said production of chicks by the country's 10,000 hatcheries would total approximately one and one-half billion this year, an increase of 300 million over last year.

Frank E. Boling, vice chairman of the feed industries council, said inability to obtain corn, which has not been moving to terminal markets in large quantities to meet demand, was responsible for the shortage of protein feeds used to feed chickens.

VANCOUVER, Wash.—Four hundred forty-two carloads of furniture believed to be the largest single shipment of household furniture ever sent to the Pacific coast, recently were delivered to Vancouver for the 5,386 row houses in the city's war housing program.

About Town

Explains Withholding Tax

After explaining the general operation of the withholding tax, as it applies to both employer and employee, George F. Koontz, public accountant, conducted a half-hour question and answer period at the Rotary club meeting Tuesday noon in the Memorial building.

Koontz predicted that this plan of paying income taxes would be permanent and that there would be no objections once the people fully realized it does not cost them any more than the old method and that it is easier to pay. He was presented to the club by Ralph Hawley.

President J. B. Martin and Sec'y Stephen Gonda plan to attend the district conference of Rotary in Kent this evening.

Goshen Grange Program

A musical program will feature the lecture hour at Goshen grange meeting Friday evening. 'Dirty Girty' First U. S. Flying Fortress To Land In Sicily

BY DON WHITEHEAD

WITH THE UNITED STATES

SEVENTH ARMY IN SICILY, July

17. (Delayed)—"Dirty Girty," from somewhere in North Africa, was the first Flying Fortress to land on Sicily—but it was an unscheduled stop which had the crew thinking maybe "Girty's 63rd bombing mission over enemy territory would be her last.

The bomber was in plenty of trouble when First Lieut. Earl Hammond of Eau Claire, Wis., set her down on an emergency landing strip that invasion troops captured several days ago.

"Dirty Girty" was one of a large flight of Fortresses which went over the toe of Italy this morning to bomb San Giovanni.

"When we went in for our bombing run they threw everything but the kitchen stove at us," Hammond said.

"Yeah," added Lieut. Joseph Pearson of Goldsboro, N. C., the co-pilot. "We were just leaving the target when the No. 2 engine went out. Then No. 4 went out. We managed to get No. 2 started up again, running halfpower, when No. 3 conked out. It looked like all of them were going out at one time.

"But our squad stayed with us until they saw that enemy fighters were not going to jump us."

Other crew members included

Sergt. Nick Kizler, of Minerva, O., armor gunner.

URGES GOVERNMENT HELP NEWSPAPERS

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Paid

newspaper advertising by the government to aid the stabilization program and the war effort is favored, by Senator Clark (D-Mo.).

"It is ridiculous to say this would be a subsidy or would lead to government control of the press," he declared in remarks inserted in the congressional record.

Supporting a bill introduced by

Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.), Clark

said:

"Every manufacturer of munitions, every purveyor of any other kind of war supplies, expects to be not only paid for what he furnishes but a reasonable profit on top of it.

"I see no reason why the newspapers should not equally be paid for the only thing they have to sell —that is, their advertising space—

when it is devoted to the government's interest."

The Missouriian, asserting that newspapers already have contributed greatly to the war effort by free insertion of government releases, said that while some large newspapers have been able to recompense themselves by getting their own large advertisers to back various war activities, smaller newspapers have not been able to do this.

Fire Damages War Plant

CLEVELAND, July 21.—One man was burned slightly yesterday when a fire and a series of explosions destroyed the die casting department of Pressure Castings, Inc., a small war plant in suburban Euclid. The cause was not determined immedi-

FIRST U. S. RAID on the major Japanese base on Paramushiro Island, northernmost of the Japanese chain, is reported by the Navy. The attack was carried out by United States Army Liberator bombers, like that pictured at left. Although the bombers' base was not revealed, it was presumed that they took off from a field in the Aleutians, as indicated on the map below. Buildings were struck and near hits scored on ships in Paramushiro Straits. (International) farmer committeemen, that they must not carry on any promotional activity for the AAA as an institution or for its policies, or attempt to build public pressure for or against congressional action on farm measures.

The congressional refusal of funds for informational work followed complaints that AAA employees and committeemen had sought to influence legislative attitude on a proposed crop incentive payment program.

These armistice moves coincided with a War Food administration decision to require slaughterers to trim more fat for lard off pork cuts, a senate committee's plans to investigate charges that chain stores have bought small meat packing plants and cut off supplies from small retailers, and the setting of new retail price ceilings on fresh fish—possibly to combat a reported "strike" of fishermen.

The new meat processing order could be expected to hold down the price of heavier hogs—since lard sells for less than most pork cuts

—and change feeding practices

among farmers who have been fattening hogs to extra weights.

Raise Fish Prices

The Office of Price administration ordered retail fish sellers to limit their prices—starting tomorrow—to a formula based on the number of cents mark-up customarily placed on fish between July 5 and July 10. Ceilings recently were imposed on wholesale transactions, which officials said brought complaints from fishermen that dealers were able to make extra profits.

From the office of the coordinator of fisheries came estimates that the work-stoppage of these fishermen already is costing the country more than 5,000,000 pounds of fish a week.

Ends Life After Killing Wife and Two Children

CLEVELAND, July 21.—Police today listed as triple murder and suicide the deaths of a former

Cleveland state hospital patient, his wife and two children, whose bodies were found in their home yesterday.

Detective Lieut. Stephen Tozer

said the body of Joseph Scharner,

36, was found hanging in a bedroom, while nearby were those of this wife, Agnes, 31, and his daughters, Caroline, 10, and Virginia, 2.

Tozer said Scharner apparently choked his wife and children, then took his own life several days ago.

Dr. Earl Kraft of the state hospital said Scharner was released from the institution last Dec. 1.

Majority of No. 3 Ration Books Have Been Mailed

COLUMBUS, July 21.—All Ohioans except those whose applications were in error will have their new

No. 3 ration books within the next few days. Office of Price Administration officials said today.

The OPA set today as the deadline for mailing approximately 7,

000,000 books but a shortage of volunteer workers made it impossible to complete the job on time, said M. A. Pixley, district OPA administration officer.

He estimated that if sufficient volunteers reported most of the work would be finished by Friday, except for handling "thousands" of war ration book applications which were filled out improperly.

Executive Is Dead

CLEVELAND, July 21.—Charles

B. Ryan, 61, executive assistant to Cleveland's city finance director, died late yesterday.

DEATHS

MISS EDNA VANKIRK

COLUMBIANA, July 21.—Miss

Edna Vankirk, 69, of S. Elm st., died of arteriosclerosis at 2:45 p.m.

Tuesday at a rest home in Youngstown.

A retired school teacher, she was the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Bennett H. Vankirk, and was born in West Newton, Pa., Aug. 18,

1873. She was a graduate of California State Normal college, Cali-
